

BARTENDERS.

HACKED HIS VICTIM'S HEART.

Carlo's Revenge on Blasi, His Son-in-Law.

He and the Witnesses to Be Examined March 15.

Frederico Carlo, who murdered Giuseppe Blasi, his son-in-law, by stabbing him four times in the heart at their home, 614 Madison avenue, Brooklyn, was held today by Justice Haggerty, in Myrtle Avenue Police Court, for examination on March 15.

Carlo and his victim had lived several years in the big tenement on Madison avenue. Blasi, married Carlo's daughter, Rachelle. The old man shared the apartments of the newly married pair until last Thursday, when, because of frequent quarrels with his son-in-law, he hired a room on the floor above. Blasi, it is alleged, beat his wife, and Carlo warned his son-in-law that if he didn't treat his wife with more respect he would thrash him. Blasi entered in the old man's face and entered his rooms.

Late yesterday afternoon, Blasi called Carlo downstairs into his apartments. No sooner had he entered the room than Blasi sprang upon him, beat him with his fists and kicked him. Carlo defended himself as well as he could, and finally broke away from his assailant. Then he ran down into the backyard, Blasi following him.

Blasi followed Carlo, intending to lock him in his own room. Just as he reached the landing on the second floor, he tripped over a box. Blasi was a short, sharp, and then, witnessed Carlo clutching his son-in-law by the throat, and holding him up against the wall drew a knife and plunged it into his heart. As Blasi struggled Carlo struck him on the head and again plunged it into his body again and again. Blasi fell to the floor. Carlo stood over his helpless victim.

There were several witnesses. Summoned Policemen Flannery and another in time to see Carlo finishing his work. A squad of reserves was called and they arrested everybody they thought had witnessed the crime.

There are several wounds on Blasi's heart four or five inches deep and fully four inches long. There are also two ugly gashes on his head, and several other smaller wounds on the body. A surgeon who examined the wounds said that Blasi's heart must have been cut to pieces.

Blasi's wife was released today to allow her to attend her husband's funeral, and the other witnesses—nine in number—were held for examination on March 15.

BARTENDER NOW ARRESTED.

Latest Development in the Fatal Whiskey-Drinking Bet.

Justice Goetting in the Lee Avenue Court, Williamsburg, today held Charles Oberst, twenty-six years old, on a charge of being accessory to a homicide. Oberst was arrested on March 1.

As has already been told in "The Evening World," William Hobley, of 164 South Eighth street, drank two pints of whiskey on a bet with Charles Oberst, and soon afterwards was found dead in a hallway.

Detectives Holland and Dolan learned that Hobley had made a bet that he could drink the whiskey with Michael Hayes, who was arrested a couple of days ago.

Oberst, who was taken into custody this morning, was charged with being accessory to a homicide. He was held in the South Second street and Bedford avenue, where the bet was made.

FOR WOMEN'S RIGHTS.

Interesting Conventions at Jamaica and Riverhead To-Day.

JAMAICA, L. I., March 2.—Late this afternoon the Woman's Suffrage Convention will be resumed in the Jamaica Opera-House. There will probably be about 100 women present. The feature of to-day's Convention will be an address by Miss Susan B. Anthony. She will speak on the rights of womanhood. Dr. Mary B. Walker will also be present.

Another Woman's Suffrage Convention is announced to be held in Riverhead this afternoon. Among the features of the meeting will be the reading of the first and second paragraphs of the Declaration of Independence, section 1 of the fifteenth amendment of the Constitution of the United States, and section 1, article 2, of the New York State Constitution.

TO SELL LIEBMAN'S STOCK.

Receivers Directed to Dispose of the Goods at Retail.

Justice Gaynor, of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, this morning filed an order for entry directing Sheriff Butting to deliver to Louis Liebman and Herman Liebman, receivers for the firm of Liebman Bros. Company, the property of the company now under his control.

The order directs the receivers to sell the stock at retail for the benefit of the creditors of the company. During the week the receivers have taken action against the "bores," big and little, who have grown rich at the public sale of the goods of the company. The receivers have taken action against the "bores," big and little, who have grown rich at the public sale of the goods of the company.

TROLLEY CARS COLLIDE.

Platforms and Windows Smashed, but No One Hurt.

Trolley car No. 1150, of the Atlantic Avenue line, and car No. 31, of the Flatbush avenue line, while on the way to the bridge this morning, collided at the Junction of Atlantic and Flatbush avenues, Brooklyn.

The cars, which were both crowded with passengers on their way to business, collided together with a crash. Luckily there was no one injured. The platforms were partially demolished, and a number of the windows broken.

Boy Helplessly Drunk.

John Lee, fifteen years old, who was held at 35 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, was found helplessly intoxicated by Roundman &'Brien, of the Fifth Avenue, on Harrison street at an early hour this morning. He was taken to the Amity street Police station, where he was held. After he had sufficiently recovered he was taken to his home, where he was held. It is supposed to have been a case of the late war.

Death of an Old Veteran.

James P. Kelly, fifty-three years old, jeweler and diamond merchant, died last night in his home over his place of business, 141 Broadway. Mr. Kelly was a veteran of the late war, and is supposed to have been a good soldier.

Suing the Brewery for $5,000.

Miss Elizabeth Hale, of Woodside, L. I., is suing the Woodside Brewing Company in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, this morning to recover $5,000 as a debt which the company is alleged to owe her. She says the note was given for the return for tax on goods which the company was paid in stock of the company.

FURGUESON'S PLANS.

With Republican Aid He Hopes to Save Himself.

But He Will Be Attended To by the Honest Citizens.

Call to Democrats to Overthrow the Boss.

Boss Cornelius Furgueson is not devoting many hours to sleep just now. He is plotting and planning, to the best of his ability, to retain his position as political monarch of Bay Ridge, Fort Hamilton, Bensonhurst and other towns in his district, and is preparing to put up the fight of his life.

Up to Feb. 28 Owens lived with his parents on the top floor of a small frame house at 124 Vermont street. They had trouble with the landlord and moved away. Last evening John returned to the house and went upstairs, telling Robert Thomas, who lived on the first floor, that he came to get some coal which had been left behind.

A few minutes later he ran out of the house and Thomas discovered that the house was on fire. The flames were called and extinguished the blaze.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The story of Owens' visit to the house was referred to by Roundman &'Brien, and Policemen Newfield went to Owens' home and called him outside. When he appeared in the doorway he carried a long knife in his hand, which he brandished in a threatening manner.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

OWENS ACCUSED OF ARSON.

Fire Discovered in a Room He Had Just Left.

His Family Had Trouble with the Landlord of the House.

John Owens, twenty-six years old, living at Billington place and Bushwick avenue, Brooklyn, pleaded not guilty to a charge of arson before Justice Connolly in Gates Avenue Court this morning and was held for examination.

Up to Feb. 28 Owens lived with his parents on the top floor of a small frame house at 124 Vermont street. They had trouble with the landlord and moved away. Last evening John returned to the house and went upstairs, telling Robert Thomas, who lived on the first floor, that he came to get some coal which had been left behind.

A few minutes later he ran out of the house and Thomas discovered that the house was on fire. The flames were called and extinguished the blaze.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

The police discovered that an attempt had been made to burn the house. In a closet in the kitchen they found a pile of rags saturated with oil. Another closet was filled with rubbish soaked with oil, and there was a trace of oil seeping out of the wall.

A DETECTIVE WAS REFEREE.

Waters Broke Up a Prize Fight in a West Thirtieth Street Loft.

Twenty-Seven Men and Boys Captured and the Principals Held.

Ward Detective Francis Waters, of the West Thirtieth street police station, while standing in a doorway near Farmer's stable, at 103 West Thirtieth street, early this morning, saw two men stealthily dodge into an alleyway leading to the rear.

This struck him as being a queer proceeding, and he was just about starting to investigate when three more men dodged into the alleyway. A dozen more men followed at intervals, and then Waters, making up his mind that something was going on, went to the station for assistance.

Immediately the Police, Link, Schultz and Buchanan were detailed to go with Waters. The latter took Link and went through the alleyway to the rear. Bright lights shone through the cracks in the building, and a crowd of men gathered around the officers' ears.

Link and Waters captured a burly negro of guard, and leaving him with the other officers, went up to the loft. There, in the center of the loft, was a regulation prize-ring. The posts were roped off, and the referee was in the ring. There were bottles, pails, towels and all the other paraphernalia necessary to a prize fight.

Two lads stripped to the waist jumped into the ring while the policeman watched. "Shake hands," cried an individual, who resembled Champion Corbett, in that he had a pair of white kid gloves. "Choose your own referee, gentlemen," continued this master of ceremonies.

The referee, who was a man of about thirty, jumped into the ring. "Consider yourselves at once arrested," he cried. "You are all under arrest." The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

BAGGED THE "TOY TERRIERS."

Policemen Powers Surprised Four Burglars at Their Work.

Captured All of Them and Recovered All the Plunder.

Policeman William Powers, of the Madison street station, did some very effective work this morning. Between 4 and 5 o'clock the clothing store of Benjamin Berkowitz, at 77 Catherine street, was broken into from the rear, and about $300 worth of flannel underwear, shirts and clothing was stolen.

This struck him as being a queer proceeding, and he was just about starting to investigate when three more men dodged into the alleyway. A dozen more men followed at intervals, and then Waters, making up his mind that something was going on, went to the station for assistance.

Immediately the Police, Link, Schultz and Buchanan were detailed to go with Waters. The latter took Link and went through the alleyway to the rear. Bright lights shone through the cracks in the building, and a crowd of men gathered around the officers' ears.

Link and Waters captured a burly negro of guard, and leaving him with the other officers, went up to the loft. There, in the center of the loft, was a regulation prize-ring. The posts were roped off, and the referee was in the ring. There were bottles, pails, towels and all the other paraphernalia necessary to a prize fight.

Two lads stripped to the waist jumped into the ring while the policeman watched. "Shake hands," cried an individual, who resembled Champion Corbett, in that he had a pair of white kid gloves. "Choose your own referee, gentlemen," continued this master of ceremonies.

The referee, who was a man of about thirty, jumped into the ring. "Consider yourselves at once arrested," he cried. "You are all under arrest." The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

The police captured twenty-seven in all. Two of the men were the fighters. They gave their names as James Hilton, alias George Young, of 600 Seventh avenue, and John Rogers, of 24 West Thirtieth street.

STOLEN FROM TIFFANY'S.

Gold Cup, Valued at $3,000, Taken from the Factory.

It Was Being Made for a Man in San Francisco.

A gold cup valued at $3,000 was stolen from Tiffany & Co.'s factory, at Prince and Mulberry streets, last Monday night. Charles T. Cook, a member of the firm, stated this morning that the cup was being made for a gentleman in San Francisco. It was of elaborate design and was intended as a present. He declined to say from whom the firm had received the order.

"The cup was nearly completed," said Mr. Cook. "Last Monday night the workman who had charge of it placed it in an ordinary cupboard instead of locking it up in the safe. He should have done. He went home at 5 o'clock in the evening, but a number of extra men who were working in several other orders which we have on hand, remained at the shop until 10 o'clock that night. We have two watchmen on duty there, but they saw nothing out of the way that night. The next morning the cup was gone."

"Whom do you suspect?" While the failure of the workman to place the cup in the safe is an apparently suspicious circumstance, yet the man has been brought up in our employ, and I can't believe he would do anything wrong. The matter will be referred to the police and is now in their hands."

"Whom do you suspect?" While the failure of the workman to place the cup in the safe is an apparently suspicious circumstance, yet the man has been brought up in our employ, and I can't believe he would do anything wrong. The matter will be referred to the police and is now in their hands."

"Whom do you suspect?" While the failure of the workman to place the cup in the safe is an apparently suspicious circumstance, yet the man has been brought up in our employ, and I can't believe he would do anything wrong. The matter will be referred to the police and is now in their hands."

"Whom do you suspect?" While the failure of the workman to place the cup in the safe is an apparently suspicious circumstance, yet the man has been brought up in our employ, and I can't believe he would do anything wrong. The matter will be referred to the police and is now in their hands."

"Whom do you suspect?" While the failure of the workman to place the cup in the safe is an apparently suspicious circumstance, yet the man has been brought up in our employ, and I can't believe he would do anything wrong. The matter will be referred to the police and is now in their hands."

"Whom do you suspect?" While the failure of the workman to place the cup in the safe is an apparently suspicious circumstance, yet the man has been brought up in our employ, and I can't believe he would do anything wrong. The matter will be referred to the police and is